Überblick

Caeli Energie is a DeepTech startup designing and manufacturing new generation residential air conditioners: high energy efficiency and low carbon footprint. During a mission for the CEA, Rémi Pérony discovered the Indian philosophy of "jugaad," which emphasizes frugality and efficiency. Caeli Énergie’s technology is an indirect process that cools air far more effectively than any other adiabatic system—down to the dew point, the temperature at which condensation naturally forms. Our modules achieve a COP (coefficient of performance) between 10 and 20, depending on conditions—five. Thanks to our satellite data, we contribute to clean energy, enabling you to make your company more sustainable.
